

The Journal of Kanbun Studies 5

Table of Contents

<Articles>

On the Various Texts of “Gonijyo-Moromichi-ki” and the Acceptance by Future Generations Nakamaru Takafumi	1
An Inspection of Kasugataisha shine’s “Bugaku-Shuki” —A Study of Various Manuscripts of “Bugaku-Shuki”— Kanda Kunihiko	35
Edo-Period Catalogues of Chinese Works: On the Reception of Chinese Works under the Rule of Tozama Daimyō in the Provinces Takayama Setsuya	79
Scenery and Eros in Travels —In View of Mori Ohgai’s “ Diary in Germany ” and Wang Tao’s “ Journey to Japan ”— Li Yonghua	111
Examinations of Textbooks and Kanbun Textbooks by the Ministry of Education —Focusing on the List of Examined Textbooks (調査済教科書表) Kimura Jun	139

<Research in Progress>

On the character of the Lunyu yishu quoted in the commentary on the “Memorial for submitting the Ryō no gige ” in the Ryō no gige Takada Sohei	161
---	-----

<Philological Introductions>

Typographical reprint and Bibliographical study of Kasugataisha shine’s “Bugaku-Shuki” Kishikawa Yoshie	175
Kanda Kunihiko

Contributors	207
Editor’s Note	208

English Summaries	214
-------------------------	-----

<Articles>

Chinese Poems Written by Japanese at Yunnan in the Ming(明) Dynasty —Part I. A Bibliographic Study of “ Cang Hai Yi Zhu (滄海遺珠)” — Wang Baoping	246(49)
On the Interpretation of the Chinese Classic by Fujiwara Seika 藤原惺窩 and His Successors —Concerning the Kundoku of “Yan(言)” and “Bo(薄)” in Shijing 詩經 — Sato Susumu	274(21)
This essay deals with the contribution that kanbun and kanbun kundoku gave to the birth of Japanese written language Aldo Tollini	294(1)